

House Panel Wants To Continue Inquiry Into Assassinations

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31—The House Select Committee on Assassinations reported today that its preliminary investigation of the deaths of President Kennedy and the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. had uncovered enough unresolved questions to require continuing its investigation of the killings.

The committee made the statement in an interim report recommending that the 95th Congress, which convenes Tuesday, approve a $6.5 million budget for the first year of a two-year investigation.

The report said that, on the basis of "numerous areas of inquiry and the necessity to preserve evidence already under subpoena, the Select Committee unanimously recommends to the 95th Congress that the Select Committee on Assassinations be immediately reestablished to continue the investigation."

'New and Disturbing Questions'

The committee cited several examples of what it called "new and disturbing questions" about the two cases that it said remained unanswered.

"Did the Central Intelligence Agency deliberately avoid furnishing critical information to the Federal Bureau of Investigation which would have resulted in the surveillance of Lee Harvey Oswald prior to the assassination of President Kennedy?" the committee report asked.

Concerning the killing of Dr. King, the committee cited James Earl Ray's unexplained courtroom statement in 1969 disagreeing with remarks made by his lawyer and the state prosecutor that there had been no conspiracy to kill the civil rights leader.

"The committee does not mean to imply that there was or was not a conspiracy," the report stated. "It merely indicates that this is one of the areas which requires further investigation, especially in view of the failure to obtain a full statement of involvement from Ray by the Tennessee authorities."

Committee was approved Sept. 17 by the House of Representatives and the group has been operating under a $150,000 budget for the last three months. It has a staff of 68.

The committee several weeks ago approved a recommendation by Richard A. Sprague, its chief counsel and director, that the investigation of the assassinations would require at least $13 million and two years to complete.

The committee's report and proposed budget will be used by its members to persuade the House to re-establish the committee and grant it the funds that Mr. Sprague has said are required to conduct an independent investigation of the two cases.
